DOLLSVILLA IN ROYAL REHAB RESORT SYDNEY

A DollsVilla by Liliane® will prove its services in the new Sargood on Collaroy Resort, which will be operated by Royal Rehab. The acquisition of the DollsVilla is a result of the Royal Dutch Trade Mission 2016 to Australia and New Zealand.

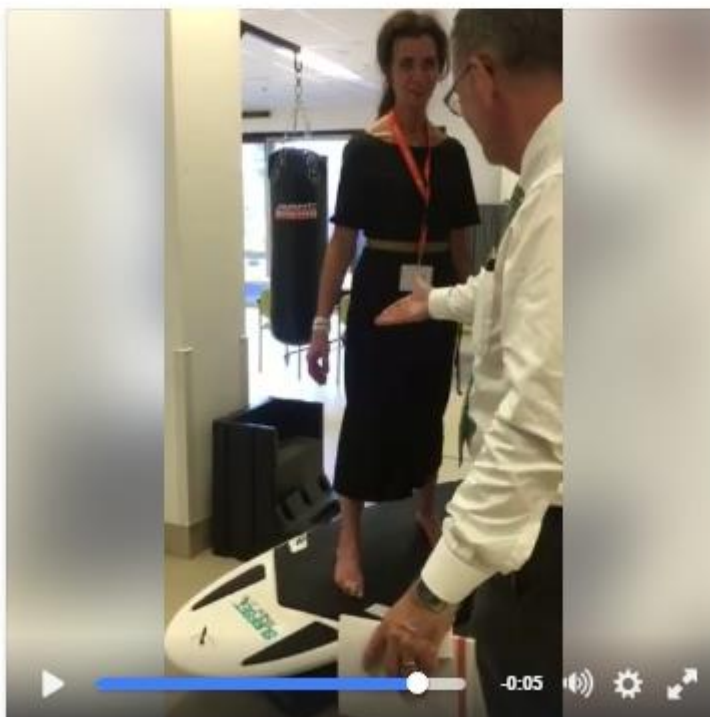

"Very happy with the DollsVilla!" – Delia Gray director of Allied Health Royal Rehab and general manager of Sargood | December 10, 2016.

Today we had the pleasure of showing the Netherlands Trade Mission on Innovations - Life Science and Health Delegation around our campus. Our Director of Medical Services showed his need for more surfing therapy. Liliane MEM Limpens, from DollsVilla, who had never been on a surfboard showed him how it's done.

Royal Rehab - the Rehabilitation & Disability Support Network - provides specialist rehabilitation and disability services for people who've acquired a disability or impairment through trauma, accident or illness. Royal Rehab offers on-site and at-home rehabilitation for brain and spinal cord injury and other complex, long term health needs. The Royal Rehab is a teaching hospital of the University of Sydney and the University of Western Sydney, training specialists and undertaking research in rehabilitation.

Sargood is a sea-side resort where families can simply come to unwind, in a fully accessible and supported environment. The vision of Sargood on Collaroy is that it will be a place to refresh, learn and connect and stay with your family whilst adjusting to home, work and community life following spinal injury. Sargood on Collaroy aims to be a world recognised resort for people living with spinal injury.
